IV. LONG-TERM RECRUITMENT INITIATIVES

WMVP is committed to performing at least four of the long-term EEO recruitment initiatives set forth in the FCC's EEO rules within a two-year period. During the one-year period from July 16, 2013 through July 15, 2014, WMVP participated in the following long-term recruitment initiatives:

1. Participation in Job Fairs – WMVP participates in various job fairs throughout the year by staffing a table at the event with company personnel responsible for hiring decisions, distributing information about careers in radio, encouraging attendees to go to school and participate in internships, answering questions about the different departments at the radio stations, collecting résumés for distribution to appropriate station hiring managers, soliciting applications, and informing attendees of current job postings at the stations.

During this reporting period, WMVP attended the following job fairs:

Name of Job Fair	Date of Job Fair	Station Personnel Who Attended *	Title
National Career Fairs, Chicago Job Fair	10/17/13	Greg Sunkel*	Senior Director, National Sales, ESPN Radio
		Randy Merkin *	Assistant Program Director, WMVP-AM
		Anabel Roda	Executive Assistant, WMVP-AM
AbilityLinks Virtual Job Fair	3/25/14 to 3/27/14	This job fair is held online.	WMVP-AM, posted the Producer/Board Operator position on this virtual job fair. Candidates applying for the position or seeking more general career advice are referred to Adam Delevitt, Program Director and hiring manager for the open position.
Columbia College Virtual Job Fair	6/11/14 to 6/15/14	This job fair is held online.	WMVP-AM posted the Part-Time Board Operator/Producer position on this virtual job fair. Candidates applying for the position or seeking more general career advice are referred to Adam Delevitt, Program Director and hiring manager for the open position.

* These individuals have hiring responsibilities for full-time and/or part-time employees at WMVP-AM.

2. Sponsorship of Job Fair – WMVP was a media sponsor of the National Career Fairs' Chicago Job Fair on October 17, 2013. In addition to attending the event, WMVP also helped promote the event by running on-air announcements twice every day for two weeks prior to the event. WMVP also posted the job fair information on its website to help inform the public of the event.
3. Internship Program – WMVP offered college and university undergraduates the opportunity to learn the day-to-day process and workings of a radio station for school credit. The station recruited interns through a notice on its website as well as outreach by the station to various area schools. The internship typically lasted approximately 10 weeks, depending on the schools' requirements and students' availability. Participants worked an average of 15 hours per week. Interns were assigned to a department, based on their career interests, but they are also exposed to other departments within the station, allowing them to see the different opportunities available to them in the radio industry. WMVP's Internship Program ended in the Fall of 2013.

WMVP had twenty (20) interns during the reporting period of 7/16/13 to 7/15/14.

Over the years, many of the WMVP interns have gone on to secure full-time and part-time positions within the company and/or other radio stations. For example, one former WMVP intern is an on-air host of WMVP's midday show. Other former WMVP interns have been able to secure full or part-time positions as Board Operator, Distribution Assistant, Producer, Production Director, Research Consultant, Writer/Editor, and Operations Manager.

4. Educational Outreach (Career Days/School Visits/Seminars) – During the reporting period, WMVP personnel represented the station at various schools within the Chicagoland area and spoke to the students about pursuing career opportunities in broadcast radio generally and at WMVP in particular. In each case, the representative discussed the different departments within the radio station and what kind of education and experience are necessary to break into the business and be successful. At times, WMVP employees also arranged for groups of students to visit the stations so they could see first-hand how a radio station runs. Afterwards, the students met with various personnel who spoke about their particular departments, as well as the many different career paths available in radio broadcasting.

The sixteen (16) educational career events/programs, in which WMVP employees participated this year, are listed below.

V. OUTREACH TO COMMUNITY ORGANIZATIONS AND SELF-ASSESSMENT

In compliance with the FCC's EEO rules and as part of a continuing long-term effort to expand and enhance its recruitment sources, WMVP has made the following efforts to inform qualifying groups how they can be placed on the stations' mailing lists to learn of future vacancies:

1. Internet – WMVP's website has, throughout the reporting year, included an invitation for organizations wishing to be informed of job openings to be placed on the station's job vacancy mailing list. The website includes a form letter that interested organizations can print, complete, and mail, e-mail, or fax back to WMVP to accomplish this. No organizations contacted WMVP during the reporting period as a result of this website form letter.
2. On-Air Announcements – During the reporting period, WMVP aired multiple announcements per week stating that the station is an equal opportunity employer and that any organization wishing to be placed on the mailing list to learn of future job vacancies can contact the station. No organizations contacted WMVP during the reporting period as a result of these on-air announcements.
3. Individual Outreach – During this reporting period, WMVP reached out personally to almost sixty (60) organizations, including minority and women organizations, via phone, e-mail, and fax, informing them that they could remain on or be added to the company's mailing lists for job vacancies. Fifty-four (54) organizations responded positively to our outreach and two (2) new organizations were added to the list.

WMVP continually reviews its recruitment methods to ensure that it is receiving qualified applicants from a wide array of sources. WMVP will also continue to strive to update, refine, and expand its mailing lists through further efforts like these in the months and years ahead and to use the improved mailing lists for virtually all full-time job openings.
